

Admissions Policy & Procedure 2020 Entry

The following information should help guide you through the application process for the Masters in Osteopathy (M.Ost) degree course at the British College of Osteopathic Medicine. If you have any questions, please do not hesitate to contact our Admissions Team on 020 7435 6464 or at Admissions@bcom.ac.uk. If you require further information about how BCOM will use the data you provide to us during the Admissions process, please see the Admissions Department Privacy Statement which is available at <https://www.bcom.ac.uk/wp-content/uploads/2018/05/BCOM-GDPR-Privacy-Notice-Admissions.pdf>

On initial contact with the College

The caller should normally receive a clear and comprehensive telephone enquiries service from a member of the Admissions team. Information on funding, fee levels, term dates, entry requirements, applying through UCAS, open days and the interview process will be given quickly and unambiguously to callers.

The caller should expect to have a prospectus promptly sent out to them on request. As well as the comprehensive contents of the prospectus, additional sheets on funding and fee levels for the 2020/21 academic year will be included.

For an example of a BCOM Year 1 timetable please contact the Admissions Team.

On receipt of the UCAS application form

The applicant can expect the College to have normally contacted them within a week of receipt of the UCAS form if they are to be called for interview. An interview date will be set during this conversation even if it is to be a date far in the future.

Applicants who are not offered an interview will be informed through UCAS of this decision within four weeks of the application being received, wherever possible, depending on the point of the UCAS cycle and how busy UCAS are.

For applicants being called to interview, their UCAS form will be thoroughly checked and relevant information flagged for use at interview. This information will include educational qualifications and the personal statement and reference that may be discussed during the interview. The forms will be checked for information that the applicant may have provided about disabilities. This would enable the interview panel to discuss this information with the applicant at the interview stage in order to ascertain what assistance the College is able to provide should the applicant commence the course.

The interview invitation letter will contain clear information about the time, date and venue of the interview.

The interview

The interview panel will be made up of at least two members, in most instances, Mr Manoj Mehta, Head of Osteopathy and a member of the Admissions Team will conduct the interviews.

Applicants can expect to talk about the following areas during the interview: their knowledge of the work of an Osteopath; their motivation for becoming an Osteopath; what skills an Osteopath needs and whether they possess these skills; their knowledge of the M.Ost course content and what they need to do in order to qualify; whether they understand the implication of Holistic Osteopathy. For more mature students who perhaps do not perfectly fit the standard entry requirements, their knowledge, work and life experience will be discussed.

The interview panel will then answer any questions related to the course, application process, funding and accommodation. The applicant's answers to these questions will have no bearing on the outcome of the interview process.

Where possible, the panel also make sure that interviewees are offered the opportunity to come and visit the College on an open day or tour.

In most cases, applicants are informed at the time of their interview whether they will be offered a place on the course. Offers are subject to applicants providing a completed Confidential Criminal Record Self Declaration form and DBS clearance. In situations where further discussion or documentation is required, applicants will be informed of the outcome of the interview as soon as possible after we have received the relevant documentation.

Admissions criteria (Entry Requirements)

The Masters in Osteopathy degree course is an integrated masters, it's also known as an undergraduate masters, whereby the first three years of the course are provided at an undergraduate level (levels 4, 5 and 6) and the fourth year is provided at masters level (level 7). Entry onto the M.Ost course is normally available via two pathways: standard-level or degree-level entry.

The standard academic profile is 112 UCAS points usually including biology or related subjects (e.g. 3 A – Levels). Other UK qualifications/Educational pathways in combination with biology are also considered, such as BTEC, HND, science foundation courses, science access courses, Baccalaureats and Scottish Advanced Highers.

Applications from those with previous degrees and from mature students are also welcome. All such applications are considered on an individual basis, taking into account the applicant's academic and life experiences to date. Demonstrable evidence of the study of biology and chemistry will usually be required but applicants holding good degrees (2.1 or above) in non-science/-health subjects will be considered on merit. Students with relevant science degrees and UK recognised medical qualifications may be eligible to apply for exemption from specific modules. Additional Information

Structure of the Course

BCOM offers a four-year, full time course leading to a Masters in Osteopathy qualification. The M.Ost is an undergraduate integrated masters programme. The first two years are pre-clinical years when basic science subjects are covered and the subsequent two years are clinical years during which clinical subjects are covered and students engage in supervised clinical practice, treating patients in BCOM's out-patient teaching clinics. Fitness to Practice

It is the legal duty of the General Osteopathic Council (GOsC) to set the standards of competence and conduct that are expected of osteopaths so that they can protect the public and maintain public confidence in the osteopathic profession. The guidelines for the safe and competent practice of osteopathy are set out in two documents published by the GOsC, the Fitness to Practice and the Standards of Practice.

Applicants are strongly advised to read the Standards and Guidelines published by the General Osteopathic Council (please see links below).

Fitness to Practise: <http://www.osteopathy.org.uk/resources/publications/Student-fitness-to-practise-guidance/>

Refer to the following documents:

- Guidance about Professional Behaviours and Fitness to Practise for Osteopathic Students
- Guidance for Applicants and Students with a Disability or Health Condition

Standards of Practice: <http://www.osteopathy.org.uk/resources/publications/standards-of-practice/>

Refer to the following document:

- Osteopathic Practice Standards

BCOM educates osteopathic students on the basis of these documents, the requirements of the Council and its own duty to graduate osteopaths appropriate for registration. Therefore, the College requires all students, regardless of known health or disability status, to confirm at admission that to the best of their knowledge, they are/will be fit to practise (both as a student of Osteopathy with other students and as a supervised student practitioner within the context of the College's teaching clinics).
